Description

Exceptional 17th-century painting from the Spanish school of Antequera. Oil on canvas, original to the period and later mounted on canvas, with a keyed frame and presented in a 19th-century gilt frame. It is signed in a cartouche in the form of a scroll, José Robledo, and dated 1690. Small dent without a hole on the right (nothing serious and visible in the photos). An in-depth study was conducted by Professor Fernandes Lopes, a leading Spanish specialist in this type of painting (see the last two photos). This study revealed significant artistic interest and a better understanding of the Antequera school, as the specialist explains. This painting was examined in person by the specialist, not through photographs. An estimate of EUR 9,500 to EUR 10,000 has been set for this canvas,
