Description

Bull after Isidore Bonheur in light brown patinated bronze (medal color), signed I. Bonheur on the base, antique cast. This generously sized piece illustrates the sculptor's talent with a composition that highlights the animal's musculature, expression, and energy. Isidore Bonheur (1827-1901) was a French animal sculptor, famous for his realistic and expressive depictions of animals, particularly horses and bulls. Born into a family of artists, he was influenced by his older sister, Rosa Bonheur, also animal sculptor.
