Description

A very fine autochrome photograph of two soldiers in a garden, circa 1915. The colors, and especially the reds, are remarkably well preserved. In its original passe-partout. A. LUMIERE & SES FILS-LYON - R. DECHAVANNES, PARIS. The autochrome image has a distinctive appearance, often described as soft and slightly blurred, with pastel colors reminiscent of an Impressionist painting. This is due to the nature of the potato starch grains and the method of filtering the light. "It is not a snapshot, but the reproduction of a frozen and composed moment, illuminated by an impression, a sensation of color generated by multiple touches of pigment shaped by the brush of light." Institut Lumière. Format: 27 x 21 cm. Plate: 11.5 x 16.5 cm. Link to the website:
