Description

A substantial Spanish grès porcelain figure by Lladro, titled La Pescadora, showing a seated fisherwoman with basket of fish and handheld scales. The piece displays the earthy palette and textured surfaces typical of Lladro's grès range: terracotta skirt, cream blouse, and blue-grey shawl, all carefully modelled.

The composition is calm and introspective, the figure resting for a moment beside her catch. The quality of sculpting is high throughout, from the folds of clothing to the stone-textured base.

Complete with its original fitted wooden stand.
