Description

Pair of Gilded Wood Winged Cherubs - 18th/19th Century

Elegant pair of wooden carvings depicting cherub faces surrounded by richly outstretched wings.

The sculptures, crafted from carved wood and finely gilded with gold leaf, display a soft expressiveness and meticulous detail in the facial features, curls, and feathery wings. Their generous dimensions make these pieces ideal as overdoors, altar ornaments, monumental frames, or as important, stand-alone decorative elements.

The original gilding retains a beautiful antique patina; slight wear consistent with age is visible, adding to the piece's authentic charm.

A work of the Italian school (probably from the central-northern area), dating between the late 18th and early 19th century. Perfect for collectors,
