Description

A Black Forest carved wooden mirror* with a rich decoration of flowers and bindweed foliage framing a rectangular (mercury) glass with a small applied oval wooden frame, dating from the 19th century. This mirror is in good condition and of fine quality. Note: a crack in the glass (slightly faded in places), a small chip and missing piece on the tip of one leaf (see red arrow), and signs of age; see photos. *Black Forest: Carved wooden objects from the Black Forest did not originate in Germany but were made in the Brienz region of Switzerland. The tradition of woodworking is ancient in this region, and the inhabitants continue the practice of wood carving on house facades, furniture, and everyday objects. The carvers particularly excel in depicting wild animals in their natural habitat. In the 19th
