Description

A two-part Baroque cabinet, crafted from solid oak, featuring four paneled doors, chamfered corners, and imposing turned columns dividing the front. A wide drawer separates the upper and lower sections. The cabinet rests on compressed ball feet and a deeply molded base. The strongly contoured cornice is adorned with a dentil frieze and two ascending rows. The doors and sides are richly paneled. Inside, the cabinet is fitted with shelves and lined with patterned wallpaper. The original ironwork completes this imposing piece with its strong architectural structure.
