Description

The vases come from the ship Hon Can, which sank in 1690 off the coast of Vietnam. They were recovered in 1990-1991 and then sold a year later at Christie's. [source: Nyuen Dinh Chien, Ceramics of five shipwrecks off the coast of Viet Nam, Hanoi, 2008]. The two vases are decorated with the same motifs but bear the signatures of different painters. China, Qing dynasty, before 1690. Underglaze painted porcelain with cobalt. Dimensions: height: 35 cm, diameter: 13 cm. Condition: one of the vases has fossilized growths resulting from contact with crustaceans on the seabed. Significant hoarding of the glaze on both vases.
