

Louis-philippe Cut Steel Pendant With Enamel

750 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Other

Length : 5cm

Width : 2.5cm

Description

Faceted steel pendant. This magnificent pendant depicts a young woman in a serene and thoughtful pose, surrounded by faceted steel. Faceted steel appeared in France around 1780. Its popularity can be attributed to several factors, including sumptuary laws prohibiting commoners from wearing precious metals and diamonds, as well as the various wars. Faceted steel was designed to imitate diamonds, especially when worn at night, as candlelight reflected off the steel, creating a sparkling effect. Dimensions: Length 5cm Width 2.5cm Weight 7g. Comes with a warranty invoice and in a new box. Free shipping within France.

Dealer

Encore une Fois

Bijoux Anciens

Mobile : 0671027148

32 Rue Puyjoli de Meyjounissas

Brantôme en Périgord 24310