Description

Ramir Lorenzale i Rogent(Barcelona 1859 - 1917) was a Spanish painter, the son and student of the painter Claudi Lorenzale.He was born in Carrer Conde del Asalto (currently Nou de la Rambla) in Barcelona, studied at the Beaux-Arts in Llotja and in Paris and dedicaded himself to decorative painting. He created the ceiling panels for the proscenium of the Gran Teatre del Liceu, which are now, unfortunately, gone. In 1882, he was one of the artists invited to the first exhibition of the Academy of Fine Arts in Sabadell.Here you can find a beautiful example of his work, possibly a flamenco scene:Spanish dancer with a fanOil on canvas55x42cmSigned lower leftframedold labels on the backMore artworks to be discovered on our website.
