Description

Portrait of a young woman in the painter's studio. This painter is Louis BERTHOMME SAINT ANDRÉ, born in 1905 and died in 1977. He is, of course, listed in the BENEZIT, a photograph of which I have included. He was a student of Cormon and Pierre Laurens. He exhibited at the Salon d'Automne, the Salon des Artistes Français from 1924 to 1929, the Salon d'Automne, the Salon des Indépendants, etc. He then received a government grant to go to Algeria. He began his training in mural painting and illustrated numerous books, including some by Colette. In 1954, he was made a Knight of the Legion of Honor in recognition of his work and was the subject of solo exhibitions in the United States and around the world until his death in 1977. He is particularly appreciated in Japan for his
