Description

A refined Italian console table from the 1950s, crafted from walnut and featuring a magnificent herringbone veneer on the fronts of the four drawers. The side edges are finished with a cannetté finish, while the hanging brass handles are all original. The top is made of original smoked glass, embellished with a delicate sculpted centerpiece, typical of the finest Lombard cabinetmaking of the period. The console table rests on four tapered legs with brass tips, elegant and stable, directly reminiscent of the style of Paolo Buffa and the Milanese school of the 1950s. A piece of great elegance and proportion, perfect for entryways, living areas, or bedrooms. Italy, ca. 1950 Paolo Buffa

Style Materials: walnut, brass, smoked
