Description

Elegant mid-19th-century table, crafted in walnut veneer. It features clean, refined lines, tapered turned legs, and a beautiful grain pattern visible on the top and apron. The top is double-folding: it opens like a book to double the playing surface, a typical feature of game tables from this period. The structure is solid and well preserved, with a charming patina that highlights the quality of the wood and the original craftsmanship. An authentic and functional piece, perfect for enhancing a classic interior, living room, entryway, or study with a touch of antique charm.
