Description

Photograph of Salvador Dalí's house in Portlligat (Cadaqués). Silver gelatin print, signed and dedicated by Antonio Fuerte. This black and white photograph depicts Salvador Dalí's famous house and studio in Portlligat, near Cadaqués, an emblematic place where the artist lived and created much of his work. The composition reveals the labyrinthine and poetic character of the house: cascading terraces, palm trees, ovoid sculptures, a pool, and the interplay of light and shadow typical of Mediterranean architecture. On the left of the print appears a large handwritten dedication by Antonio Fuerte, written with elegance and expressiveness. His expansive and dynamic handwriting accompanies the photograph as an artistic gesture in its own right, adding a personal and emotional dimension to the
