Description

A Huge J. Fischer Budapest Jardiniere with Gilded Bronze Dragon Mounts Hungarian Fischer Budapest refers to the decorative ceramics pottery and porcelain produced by the Fisher Family in Hungary, primarily from the 1860s until the Zsolnay factory acquired the company around 1895. Led by Ignac Fisher, the company became a major producer of majolica, earthenware, and porcelain with rich, often Oriental- and Middle Eastern-influenced designs, and was known for hand-painted decorations and innovative techniques.
