Description

A charming Louis XVI style bouillotte table, made in the 19th century, veneered in mahogany over oak, topped with a white marble slab encircled by a copper molding. Around the band, decorated with copper fillets, are a deep drawer and two pull-out slides. The fluted legs, with the fluting inlaid in brass, rest on small sabots. The piece is in very good condition (no loss of copper on the legs, as is often the case).
