Description

A charming bronze study depicting a pair of hares. The sculpture has a brown patina and is signed PJ.MÊNE on the base. The base (weighted with plaster) is highly decorative, with numerous details that bring the piece to life. Pierre-Jules Mêne (1810-1879) was a French sculptor, considered one of the pioneers and greatest exponents of animal sculpture in the 19th century. He specialized in representing domestic animals (horses, dogs, cattle, rabbits, etc.) and left his mark on his era through the quality and finesse of his bronzes, often small in scale.
