Description

Antique Odiot Paris Minerva Silver Brandy Warmer / Saucepan with Wooden Handle - 19th Century A fine and elegant French silver brandy warmer (saucepan) by the renowned Parisian silversmith Maison Odiot, bearing the Minerva hallmark for high-grade (950) silver. This charming small saucepan features a circular body with a pouring lip and an elegantly shaped turned wooden handle, designed to remain cool when heated. Such pieces were traditionally used for warming brandy or delicate sauces, and were a staple of refined 19th-century French tableware. Superbly made, with Odiot's typical balance of function and fine neoclassical design, this example combines understated elegance with practical craftsmanship. Maker: Maison Odiot, Paris Hallmark: French Minerva Head (950 silver
