Description

An elegant oil on panel by Vincenzo Aprile, a refined exponent of the Neapolitan landscape school, depicting a broad view of Piazza Dante in Naples, captured from a raised vantage point. The panel presents a broad view of the square from a raised vantage point, revealing all its details: the facades of the buildings, the gardens, the domes of the churches, and above all the famous monument dedicated to the poet Dante Alighieri, which still stands at the center of the square. The work is clearly Impressionist in style: the rapid, textured, and immediate brushstrokes, combined with an easily recognizable style, create a vibrant and lively image of Naples in the late 1980s. The artist's signature is visible in the lower right corner. The panel is in excellent condition, undamaged, and housed in a gilded
