Description

A rare and characteristic surrealist drawing from Henri Nouveau's graphic period, in which the artist developed a visual language based on fine lines, biomorphic figures, and floating forms. The work presents an almost surreal construction, where organic silhouettes intertwine with light geometric structures, creating a mental and poetic space unique to the artist. The word "irgendwo" (German for "somewhere") inscribed by the artist reinforces this dreamlike quality, evoking a scene suspended between abstraction and figuration. The precise date "29.VI.37" and the signature HN in the lower right corner give this drawing significant documentary value within Nouveau's oeuvre, whose graphic works from this period remain uncommon on the market. Ink. Original work. Certificate issued by Philippe Lambert.
