

Arched Mirror With Brass Frame, 1950s

Description

Arched Mirror with Brass Frame, 1950s Refined modernist wall mirror, featuring an arched frame in gilded metal, probably brass, with a simple and elegant design. The arched shape lends a classic elegance reinterpreted with a typically modern taste. The reflective surface is framed by a satin band that incorporates delicate engraved floral motifs, distributed along the sides and at the top, adding a balanced and unobtrusive decorative touch. The overall effect is harmonious and luminous, ideal for interiors that require a discreet but aesthetically striking ornamental element. The geometric elements that divide the satin band emphasise the compositional care typical of modernist furniture from the 1950s to the 1970s, giving the mirror a character that is both decorative and functional.
