Table lamp in Murano art glass, 1970s Nason & Radi to , with a strong scenic presence and the poetic language typical of the great Murano glassmaking tradition.
The surface is animated by fluid drips of molten glass in warm tones of amber, brown, and red, flowing vertically over a milky background, creating a rich interplay of texture and color.

The
multicolored murrines, scattered like small painterly accents, enrich the composition with rhythm and movement, making each point of the lamp unique.
When lit, the light passes through the glass and enhances the layers, producing a warm, enveloping, and evocative illumination.
The
soft shape of the base and the dome-shaped lampshade interact in perfect harmony, resulting in a decorative object of great charm, representative of Murano design of the mid-20th century.
A decorative piece of great appeal, ideal for vintage, mid-century, or contemporary interiors that embrace distinctive character pieces.
