Description

Porcelain plate from Paris, decorated by the Atelier de Perche in the early 19th century. The centre features a magnificent hand-painted floral bouquet -- variegated tulips, anemones, asters and other finely detailed flowers -- executed with remarkable precision and vivid colours, typical of high-quality Parisian decoration of this period. The border is finished in deep cobalt blue, enriched with delicate gilt patterns painted by hand and framed by wide gold bands. The plate displays the refined and luxurious style associated with the Atelier de Perche. The back bears the green painted mark of the atelier, confirming its origin. Diameter - 23 cm. Condition: light wear consistent with age, including minor rubbing to the gilding and small surface marks visible in the photos. No cracks.
