Description

A Louis XVI style walnut chiffonier table dating from the late 18th or early 19th century, it features three drawers with brass knobs. The drawer fronts are adorned with brass moldings. The uprights are fluted, and the top is framed on three sides by a wooden molding. The four tapered legs are joined by a stretcher. This table has been cleaned and repaired. The space between the top and the drawers is 24 cm. Note: cracks have been filled on the top and the shelf, and the four legs have been raised in an earlier style; all of this is visible in the photographs.
