Library (USA). 18th-century full calf binding, simple decoration, in good overall condition despite some localized old damp stains. A rare 16th-century legal work devoted to the law of second marriages, a central moral and legal issue in post-medieval Christian Europe. It is a valuable testimony to the theological and legal debates of the first half of the 16th century, enriched with scholarly commentaries and an analytical index. An important piece for collectors of early legal works or for libraries specializing in canon law and civil.
