Description

A pair of Louis XVI style carved and gilded wooden musicians' chairs, featuring superb lyre-shaped backs emblematic of the late 18th-century Neoclassical style. The openwork backs are richly carved with scrolls, fluting, and floral motifs, resting on tapered legs. The circular caned seats lend lightness and refinement to the ensemble. The straight, fluted legs enhance the harmony and balance of proportions. The chairs make a striking decorative statement, ideal for a classic, Haussmannian, or contemporary interior seeking a touch of historical elegance. Features:
Type: Pair of chairs Material: Carved and gilded wood Seat: Cane Back: Openwork lyre Style: Louis XVI / Neoclassical Period: Late 19th century (in the style of the 18th century) Condition: Good overall condition Antique
