Description

A beautiful marine painting depicting a harbor scene in Concarneau. Several boats are moored, with buildings in the background. The colors are primarily shades of blue, gray, and white, with touches of yellow and red. A figure in a yellow oilskin and cap is visible in the foreground; this fisherman is working on one of the boats. The atmosphere is misty, suggesting a cloudy morning. The painting's molded frame is gilded and lacquered black. The artist's name and the date, "Blaszczyk St. 91," are visible in the lower right corner of the painting. Stanislas Blaszczyk (1944-2006) was born in September 1944 in a labor camp in Singen, Poland, where his parents were imprisoned during the occupation. After the liberation, he moved to Paris, where he worked as a hairdresser before beginning to paint. After
