19th century. This pair of prints, entitled "The Rising and The Setting," reproduces two compositions by Jean-Baptiste Le Prince, elegantly and subtly illustrating moments of feminine intimacy. These scenes are part of the gallant tradition of the 18th century, characterized by a subtle balance between narrative, setting, and figures. The prints offered here are 19th-century impressions, made from the original compositions. They attest to the enduring popularity of these images, highly valued for their decorative quality. The two prints form a coherent pair, conceived as a set, which is an essential element of their appeal. Presented in 19th-century carved and gilded wood frames, they offer a harmonious decorative display, suitable for a classical or 18th-century interior. Good overall condition. Note the presence of old damp stains visible in the margins, without affecting the engraved subjects. Wear and patina consistent with age and use. Price: EUR350 for the pair
