Description

We are delighted to offer this lovely antique Victorian 18ct gold, opal and pearl marquise cluster ring made c.1895. The central opal has been wonderfully set in marquise fashion with a border of cluster seed pearls surrounding and contrasting its colour. The opal presents such a dreamy yet refreshing colour with vibrant blues and specs of teal/greens that are particularly highlighted under natural sunlight. Depending on the angle and lighting, the colour changes in such an enchanting manner with a pinkish-orange hue of fire that can also reveal itself. In our opinion, the opals are most likely of Australian origin due to their colour distribution and hydrophobic (non-water absorbent) characteristics. Furthermore, the intricate goldsmithing and overall craftsmanship adds to an ergonomic yet exquisite ring - the mount and setting features an intricate border with very fine claws that maximises the gemstones' viewing angle. A lovely combination of fine goldsmithing and quality gems makes for a distinguished choice for antique jewellery lovers. Whether it be for wearing as a contrasting piece of jewellery among other pieces or as a single ring, such a piece is bound to be a conversation starter and a wonderful way to display your passion for fine antique jewellery. Opal is known to be the birthstone for October and pearls, June. A very special ring for a special individual or as an indulging gift to oneself. The ring is marked 18ct on the inside of the shank. All of our jewellery comes with a complimentary hard shell gift box with a velvet interior.
