Description

A magnificent and large Bellarminer pitcher from Germany. Made of stoneware, it likely comes from Frechen. The light brown and yellow tiger decoration is quite rare. It also features a large mask and three impressed hearts. It can be dated between 1650 and 1680. Three small surface imperfections are visible, probably due to insufficient cleaning of the clay. One of them is located to the left of the handle. No restoration or repair has been carried out. I also appreciate the detail of the handle, where fingerprints are visible. Please feel free to contact me with any questions. In good used condition. Height: 38 cm Width: 25 cm Thank you for your visit! Best regards, Ben
