Description

Large Chinese carved and lacquered wooden screen (red, brown, gold) with seven panels, late 19th century. Each panel depicts scenes of daily life and floral motifs. It measures 170 cm high, and each panel is 28 cm wide (196 cm wide in total). An interesting detail: the middle panels slide downwards to open the screen (see photos). To raise them and block the view, the panels are locked in place with a small pivoting wedge.
