Description

An important Empire-style mirror, crafted from dark green painted wood and richly decorated with neoclassical-inspired gilt stucco. The upper section features a wide gilt stucco frieze depicting an allegorical scene in the antique style, featuring draped figures, a chariot, temples, and architectural elements, framed by a palmette frieze. The mirror is flanked by two fluted columns adorned with gilt stucco, lending the whole a strong architectural and decorative presence. The contrast between the dark green painted wood and the gilding particularly highlights the sculpted decoration. This large mirror can be displayed on the floor or mounted on the wall.
