Description

Pair of Imari porcelain covered pots - Japan, 19th century An elegant pair of Imari porcelain covered pots, richly decorated with stylized floral motifs, enhanced with cobalt blue, iron red, and gold highlights, in the purest tradition of Japanese Imari-inspired production. The vases have a harmonious baluster shape, resting on a footed base adorned with geometric friezes. The matching lids, topped with button handles, complete the set with balance and refinement. The decoration, dense and finely executed, alternates flowers, foliage, and ornamental reserves, offering a particularly rich and elegant decorative interpretation. Their quality of workmanship, their presentation as a pair, and their beautiful decorative presence make these pots an excellent choice for a classic interior or a
