strongly emphasizes the circular silhouette of the piece. The Motifs: A profusion of floral hues--powder pinks, carmine reds, and creamy whites--that contrast delicately with the ochre and gold shades of the foliage scrolls. Unparalleled Ornamental Richness: The design is structured around a spectacular central medallion, adorned with a swirling floral rosette. This centerpiece is surrounded by a wide laurel wreath and stylized fleur-de-lis, symbols of nobility and victory. The rug's edge is punctuated by festoons of exquisitely delicate floral garlands, linked by ornamental cartouche motifs. Every detail testifies to the precision of the Aubusson master weavers, capable of transforming wool into a veritable textile masterpiece. A Historical Heritage: Owning a 19th-century Aubusson rug is to bring history into your home. Prized by the European aristocracy and upper middle class, these rugs were designed to enhance reception rooms. Its circular shape, particularly rare and sought after, makes it an ideal collector's item to structure a room with prestige and elegance.
