Description

This exceptional netsuke, carved from walrus ivory, depicts a festive Japanese procession with remarkable finesse. The work portrays a group of animated figures carrying a portable shrine (mikoshi). Every detail, from the jovial expressions on their faces to the patterns of the drapery, testifies to masterful craftsmanship. The natural patina of the ivory highlights the depth of the carvings, creating a striking contrast. A rare collector's item, a true testament to the culture and artistic precision of the period.
