Description

A quadrilateral vase in iridescent glass with a deep cobalt blue background, displaying subtle iridescent reflections depending on the light. The free-form, twisted body is decorated with an enameled floral design, highlighted in gold and silver, depicting stylized lotus flowers with slender stems, in a Japanese style. The decoration is applied in low relief, with meticulous detailing of the petals and stamens. The rim is multi-lobed, and the thick base has a granite-like appearance characteristic of hot-worked glass. Specifications: Height: 26 cm Material: Iridescent enameled glass Decoration: Stylized lotus flowers, gold highlights Color: Cobalt blue with iridescent reflections Period: Late 19th - early 20th century (Art Nouveau/Japanese style) Condition: Good overall condition. Note: One small internal chip and visible wear to the gilding on the upper rim, wear and manufacturing marks on the base, without cracks or repairs. A striking decorative vase, typical of late 19th-century artistic glass production, ideal for an Art Nouveau collection or elegant décor. Unsigned, anonymous work in the style of Montjoye. A similar example with decoration and form is in the Musée d'Orsay (last photo).
