Description

Important five-light gilt bronze chandelier, Napoleon III period, 19th century. This antique chandelier, crafted in finely chased bronze, is exceptionally elegant and of remarkable quality. The central structure is distinguished by a twisted bronze stem, highlighted by an elegant openwork motif, lending lightness and sophistication to the whole. The upper crown features a richly worked decorative rosette, typical of decorative productions from the Napoleon III period. The chandelier comprises five sinuous arms in sculpted bronze, adorned with finely modeled plant motifs and scrolls. Each arm holds a ribbed and fringed opaline glass shade, diffusing a soft and warm light. The central section is enhanced by a substantial, flowing, blown opaline glass shade, which reinforces the decorative and
