Description

France, late 19th century - Napoleon III periodImportant French oval mirror, attributable to the Napoleon III period and dating to the late 19th century, crafted in gilded pastiglia using a mixed technique with gouache and water-gilding (mission gilding).The richly modelled frame features an elegant decorative scheme with vegetal motifs and scrolling elements, crowned by a prominent upper crest, characteristic of 19th-century decorative taste, giving the mirror a strong and theatrical presence. The slender proportions and impressive dimensions make it particularly suitable for statement interiors.The gilding shows age-related craquelure and surface wear, consistent with the period and the nature of the material, without detracting from the overall visual balance.The mirror plate has been replaced
