Description

A stunning, iconic lamp by designer Carlo Nason, based on the famous "Stalagmiti" model, produced in Murano in the 1970s. This piece is distinguished by its perfectly balanced, thick glass spherical shape, revealing a central bulb reflected by a mirrored shade, creating a striking optical effect. The chromed metal base and central ring emphasize its space-age aesthetic, typical of Italian design from this period. The high-quality glasswork evokes the natural mineral formations that gave the Stalagmiti model its name. A lamp that is both sculptural and functional, it has become an essential reference in vintage Italian design. This model, attributed to Carlo Nason, is known and documented, although unsigned, and consistent with Murano productions of the time. Designer: Carlo Nason
