Description

Japanese PrintProbably from the late 19th or early 20th centuryLaid paper. Artist and scene to be identified. Signed in the plate on the right. Dimensions: 32 x 24.5 cm. Superb maritime subject with a lovely treatment of the sea in bokashi (???), a light mist or clouds visible in the sky revealing a subtly embossed sun, leaving its imprint on the back of the paper. The birds are also rendered with great delicacy, and the whole is in a relatively unexpected format, close to the oban format : framed in black within an oval. In good condition, it should be noted that there is a central crease (common for prints of this period) as well as a wormhole in the center near the crease and the sea horizon. This print is technically very beautiful and will certainly delight whoever can attribute it.
