Description

Exceptional in size (358 cm wide x 262 cm high), this highly decorative panel is composed of four panels whose dimensions closely resemble those of late 18th-century looms. They have been mounted on linen canvas, which itself dates from the same period. This decoration would therefore date to the very late 18th or early 19th century. A very attractive scene to adorn a feature wall, in front of which one could place a living room, even a very contemporary one, or even a dining table. Although in good condition for an object of this period, it requires some restoration to fill and conceal a few minor losses of material. No tears. Delivery possible.
