Description

This village scene with a sleigh ride was painted by the renowned Polish artist Czeslaw Wasilewski, also known as Ignacy Zygmuntowicz (born in 1875 in Warsaw, died in 1947 in Łódź). He was self-taught and enrolled at the Warsaw School of Fine Arts in 1911, though there is no evidence that he actually studied there. In 1917, he was likely a student of Wojciech Kossak. He lived in Warsaw and developed a personal style characterized by great creative individuality. He primarily painted sleigh rides, village landscapes, winter scenes, and hunting scenes. In his paintings, he referenced artists such as M. Ing. Józef Brandt, Józef Chelmonski, and Alfred Wierusz-Kowalski. He participated in several national exhibitions in Lublin, Czêstochowa, Gdynia, and Poznan. He exhibited on several
