Description

I present here a large piece in matte white biscuit porcelain: "Young Putti Guiding a Spirited Goat on a Rose-Leaded Stem." This remarkable and important decorative piece perfectly embodies the spirit of the reign of Louis XV/Louis XVI. It offers a masterful, classically inspired decoration of exceptional quality. This beautiful group of the child and the animal possesses a lovely pastoral symbolism. The powerful sculpture creates a magical atmosphere for this important and very well-executed decorative piece. The firing is a testament to the expertise of a manufacturer, given the size, in the tradition of Sèvres or Limoges. The details are highly expressive, and the execution is superb, resulting in a beautiful object ideal for decorating a chest of drawers, console table, or other space, in a decorative style
