Description

A charming patinated bronze "Putti" holding a shell, dating from the second half of the 18th century, French. It rests on a pink marble base veined with gray and white, supported by four gilt bronze feet, the rim of the base adorned with a gilt beaded border. It is expressive; is it offering alms? Or is it presenting the shell? This bronze, somewhat languid in its posture, leaning on a rock with its left arm extended, its drapery hinting at modesty, in the pure Baroque spirit of the mid-century, is beautifully retouched and of respectable proportions; it sits proudly on its base. A true "curiosity," with all the charm that accompanies it, this decorative piece, generous in size and of fine quality, retains its original patina and a lovely pose. This beautiful decorative element will find its place in a home where the
