Description

Tinplate box with a domed, lockable lid. It is painted burgundy and black, decorated with gold trim, and features a large gilded Masonic emblem on lid. Inside is painted blue-green, with a tinned base. As you can see (photos), the Masonic decoration is worn and incomplete, but enough structural elements remain to allow for its reconstruction. It is in fairly good condition and opens and closes normally with its charming little key. I believe this is a rather rare box.
