Description

A collection of 22 "bee" bottles from the House of Guerlain. Available in various sizes and fragrances: - Eau de Cologne Impériale - Eau de Fleurs de Cédrat - Eau de Cologne du Coq. Some bottles are embellished with fine gold. History: Designed in 1853 by the founder of Guerlain, the bottle with 69 bees was presented as a gift to Empress Eugénie de Montijo upon her marriage to Napoleon III. The production of this bottle has always been entrusted to the Pochet du Courval factory in Hodeng-au-Bosc; its iconic shape is inspired by the top of the Vendôme Column.
