

Two-pronged Spear Fork, Dolphin Head Handle, 17th Century. Tableware, Folk Art.

350 EUR

Period : 17th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Wrought iron

Length : 18,5 cm

Description

A skewering fork. The sinuous handle, engraved with scrolling foliage and ending in a heraldic dolphin's head, is made of very hard wood. It has a beautiful patina. The finger position follows the sinuous shape. The two-pronged fork is forged from a single piece of wood. There are very slight cracks on each side of the handle (due to the wood's natural movement over time). 17th century. Good condition.

Dealer

Les Couloirs du Temps - Samuel Collin

Folk Art and Popular Traditions, Regionalism, Curiosity

Tel : 06 81 53 21 70

Mobile : 06 70 45 88 65

Impasse des Ventes

Mézières-en-Drouais 28500