Description

Empty case for a singing bird mechanism - possibly Bruguier or Rochat. This empty case, intended for a singing bird mechanism, is possibly by Bruguier or Rochat. The case is richly engraved, demonstrating meticulous decorative work. The control is located in the center of the front, with the winding hole in the lower corner. An access hatch is present at the rear, consistent with the construction of singing bird boxes from the 19th and early 20th centuries. External dimensions: 35 × 88 × 57.5 mm. Internal dimensions: 28.3 × 86.4 × 47.3 mm. An interesting item for restoration, study, or collecting.
