Description

From the storage areas of an antique dealer in our Drôme region, who was unable to complete its restoration, here is a rare religious sculpture, full of charm and beauty: infant Jesus holding the hand of his cousin, prophet John the Baptist, who was a constant presence in his youth. An anonymous sculpture from 17th or early 18th century, carved from wood untouched by woodworm, St. John displays a rather ruined original polychromy, with Child having been incompletely stripped. The subject is quite rare, both figures are beautiful, and authenticity is evident. 64cm x 43cm x 18cm, weight: 3.7kg. Discovery condition, well visible on our photos.
