Description

A work of rare beauty and academic charm: a begin 20th-century wax sculpture depicting the Head of Hera, the majestic Queen of Olympus. Originating from the storerooms of a French academic school, this creation is a fine example of classical art and academic study. The piece, in excellent overall condition, measures 27x25x20 cm and rests on a 50 cm base, enhancing its elegant proportions and visual impact. An Academic Model of Exceptional Artistic Quality Executed with great anatomical precision and stylistic rigor, this sculpture perfectly balances academic discipline and artistic emotion. The wax, a noble yet challenging medium, gives the surface a natural luminosity, emphasizing the softness of the features and the dignity of the expression. Furthermore,
